SUMMER COLORING

Mixed-Up Margie

A character is a person or animal in a story. To help readers understand a character better, a story often gives details about the character.

Once upon a time there was a mixed-up queen named Margie. She got things mixed up. She wore her crown on her arm. She wore a shoe on her head. She painted every fingernail a different color. Then she painted her nose red! She used a fork to hold her hair in place. She wore a purple belt around her knees. The king didn't mind. He always wore his clothes backward!

Use the story and your crayons to help you follow these instructions:

1. Draw Margie's crown.
2. Draw her shoe.
3. Paint her fingernails and nose.
4. Draw what goes in her hair.
5. Draw her belt.

Circle the correct answer:

6. What makes you think Margie is mixed up?
the way she dresses
the way she talks
7. What makes you think the king is mixed up, too?
He talks backward.
He wears his clothes backward.

Pretend tomorrow is Mixed-Up Day. Describe what you will wear as a mixed-up character.
